127. The Origin

of the

of the human mind is a subject of great importance and one which has attracted the attention of philosophers and statesmen for many centuries. It is a subject which has been treated in many different ways and has given rise to many different theories.
The most common theory is that the mind is a blank slate at birth and that all knowledge is derived from experience.
This theory is known as tabula rasa.

Another theory is that the mind is predisposed to certain ideas and feelings and that these are developed by experience.
innatism.
